New Areas Are Hit by Flood

Flood Crest Yet to Come To St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, July 19—(AP)—The highest flood waters in more than a century rushed down the Missouri River Valley toward St. Louis today.

The waters are sweeping down from the flood-stricken areas of Kansas and eastern Missouri where overflows caused an estimated $750,000,000 loss.

The swollen Mississippi already damaged St. Louis River front industry.

But the biggest mass of water still was harassing central Missouri.

At Jefferson City, the state capital, some 30 blocks were submerged. Other blocks had some water.

Electric service to the capital and other state buildings was curtailed as water inched into the state power plant.

The Missouri Power and Light Company plant, which serves the rest of the town, had water on the floor, but company officials said sandbags would keep out the main flood and permit operation to a stage of 38 feet. The Missouri River was expected to reach a 35-foot stage at Jefferson City this morning.

Mississippi River
The Mississippi here has been high for two weeks. Three boys drowned in backwaters of that river south of East St. Louis, Ill., yesterday—bringing to 26 the number of dead from floods in the Midwest.

The worse is yet to come here. The Weather Bureau expects a stage of 4.05 Sunday—highest since the unofficial reading of 41.39 on (Please turn to Page Two)

I am indebted to Miss Emma Jackson for a bit of unusual history connected with one of this city's well known residents who passed away last week.

I mean Miss Carrie Lavenia Anschutz, who died at the age of 88 years.

Miss Anschutz's father, Henry Peter Anschutz, native of Hesse-Darmstadt, Germany, was a German soldier under General Blucher whose forces arrived and turned the tide of battle which defeated the French under Napoleon, June 18, 1815, at Waterloo, Belgium.

Henry Peter Anschutz was later a band leader in Germany, and also a weaver. In 1836, with his first wife and eight children, he sailed for America, but the ship was wrecked, and six of his children drowned. His wife died of exposure. One of his children died of yellow fever, at Baltimore, Md.

Miss Carrie Anschutz was the 12th of 13 children by her father's second marriage.

Various members of the family achieved noteworthy success in their fields of endeavor.

William Gilbert Thorpe, grandfather of Miss Anschutz, was one of the brave young soldiers fighting under the American flag at Fort Henry, near Baltimore, when Frances Scott Key, a prisoner aboard one of the British ships which was bombarding the fort, wrote "The Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Anschutz's grandmother, Nancy Rook Gilbert Thorpe, was the only woman who remained in that part of Baltimore during the battle.

Thus it will be seen that Miss Anschutz's ancestors took part in at least two outstanding battles in world history.

MISSOURI STATE CAPITOL in Jefferson City (top photo) sits just above swollen Welf Creek, which is flooded by the overflowing Missouri River three miles away. Hundreds of acres between Jefferson City and the Missouri are inundated. Thousands of acres are inundated near Lexington, Mo., (lower photo) about 40 miles east of Kansas City, as uncontrollable waters from the rampaging Mississippi River spread out over the surrounding countryside, making it one of the hardest hit areas of the flood. Lexington itself escaped flooding, since much of the city sits on high ground. (International Soundphotos)

Only City School Board Draws Much Interest For November Election

Filing of nominating petitions for various village, school board and city council positions is lagging. From indications there will be several candidates unopposed, and for some posts no candidates at all.

The deadline for candidates to file is August 8. By late afternoon Wednesday, only 16 candidates had filed with the Fayette County Board of Elections to run in the November 6 general election.

This small number of candidates is considered almost negligible when compared to the number of offices which must be filled.

Here are the offices which will be filled during the November election: village offices in Bloomington, Jeffersonville, Octa and Milledgeville; township trustees and clerks in each township; three positions on the Washington C. H. council; three positions on the Washington C. H. school board and two on the county school board.

Kids Get Fat Tips Then Law Steps in

INDIANAPOLIS, July 19—(AP)—The well dressed stranger liked the shoe shine Dan Watson gave him and handed the 14-year-old boy a $100 bill yesterday.

Dan's eyes popped, and the jaws of his three companions dropped. The stranger peeled off $150 more to be split among Willie Sanders, 11, Chester Walters, 12, and Jimmie Jones, 11. Then he disappeared into the downtown crowd.

Bystanders called police, who took custody of the bills and tried to find the stranger. They weren't sure whether he made a mistake or just likes kids.

Foxhole Not Safe With Jeep on Loose

WITH U. S. 45TH DIVISION, Hokkaido Island, Japan, July 19—(AP)—Pvt. Herbert Wells of Dayton, O., was asleep in his foxhole. Something touched him.

Then the front wheel of a blacked-out jeep passed over his midriff. Wells yelled. A back wheel also passed over his middle before the jeep stopped.

At a hospital doctors found Wells bruised slightly, but otherwise unhurt.

Panties Chain Letter Arrives Here

That panties chain letter, which started to sweep the country like the 10-cent chain letter and handkerchief chain letter and number of years ago, has reached Washington C. H.

Not only has it reached Washington C. H., but it has been given a death blow by postal officials, who have pronounced it a violation of law, with the senders liable to prosecution under the U. S. postal laws.

As a result of the official thumbs down on the latest chain letter craze, the chain has already been broken.

Policy Changed Toward Spain as Military Move

Use of Bases There Wanted by Navy And U. S. Air Force

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—President Truman said today this country has changed its policy toward Franco Spain to some extent for military reasons.

Mr. Truman was asked at his news conference about reports from Madrid that Spain and the United States have reached a basic agreement on American use of Spanish air and naval bases.

The president replied that Secretary of State Acheson covered the matter fully in a statement yesterday.

Acheson had said the government is seeking to enlist Franco Spain in "the common defense against possible aggression."

Like Acheson, Mr. Truman said the Madrid negotiations being carried on by Admiral Forrest P. Sherman are only preliminary.

Sherman, chief of naval operations, held talks with Generalissimo Franco earlier this week.

Asked if the negotiations are a change in American policy toward Spain, the president said they are to some extent.

No Comment on Korea

Mr. Truman declined to comment on the progress of the Korean peace talks and also on how W. Averell Harriman, his personal representative, is faring in his attempt to make peace between the British and the Iranians, in their oil dispute. He said he had not heard directly from Harriman.

In general, influential senators approve moves to bring not only Spain but Turkey and Greece as well into closer association with the North Atlantic defense alliance.

Korea Duty Likely For National Guards

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—The army may be planning on sending two National Guard divisions in Japan to Korea eventually as it steps up the program of taking battle-weary soldiers out of action.

This appeared today to be one of the possible methods to be used in an accelerated rotation program which by next November will have taken about 112,000 veterans of long fighting out of the battle line.

Use of guard divisions, however, presumably would be only part of the general program, the primary method being the present rotation system—returning soldiers with long service, on an individual basis, with replacements going out from training camps in the United States.

The army announced yesterday a total of 32,000 officers and men had left the Far East for the U. S. up to July 10 and that the rate of rotation of each of the next three months would be 30,000.

The 112,000 veterans to be rotated by next fall will come out of a total combat force probably not much greater than 150,000 men. This includes the equivalent of about six or seven divisions and other separate units, such as corps artillery.

Army officials declined to say precisely how they expect to keep up the combat effectiveness of the forces in Korea, but they expressed confidence that it could be done.

Memorial Hospital Crowded Beyond Its Normal Capacity

Another record number of patients were crowded into Fayette County Memorial Hospital Wednesday when a total of 47 adults and 12 infants were receiving attention in the institution.

Because all patient rooms were filled to capacity it was necessary to temporarily place five incoming patients in beds in the corridors.

Con Man Deals Bared

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—A priest testified today he and colleagues had turned over between $150,000 and $200,000 to a man described as "a professional confidence man with a long criminal record."

The testimony to a Senate investigations subcommittee came from Fr. Maxim Markiw, of the Greek Catholic Church. He identified himself as provincial of the order of St. Basil the Great, with headquarters in New York.

He said he paid the money to Sam D. Mason, termed a professional "con man" with a criminal record by Senators Hoey (D-NC) and McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Mason, under subpoena, waited to testify while Fr. Markiw and a colleague, Fr. Peter Hewko, told their story.

Fr. Hewko testified Mason had said he was in a position to get them bargain leases on "surplus" government buildings in various parts of the country.

The witness added the offer was accepted because the order was in need of a new church and a school, as well as a camp for poor children.

Fr. Hewko also testified Mason told him he would use the money received to pay off "army officers" who would clear the way to obtaining the leases. At the outset of today's session Hoey, the committee chairman, said there was no evidence any government officials or military men were involved in Mason's operations.

Before the two priests took the stand the committee was told:

1. By Joseph E. Bennett, Boston construction contractor, that he paid Mason $22,765 to obtain contracts for him but that Mason never produced. He said he had gotten between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 worth of government contracts in competitive bidding without help from Mason.

2. By Mr. and Mrs. Bohdan Katamay of 64333 Morris Road, Philadelphia, that they and relatives and friends paid Mason about $37,000 to obtain leases on government buildings.

Bennett said he was introduced to Mason in 1948 by Meyer Sawyer, a Washington attorney. He said he was put in touch with Sawyer through "an old friend" in Boston, Bill Jacobs.

Controls Battle On over Profit

Political Angles Injected into Row

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—House Members, tempers frayed by partisan bitterness, today neared the end of their long battle over wage, price, rent and other economic controls.

DESTRUCTION SEEN

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told Congress today the "cost-plus-guaranteed profit" amendment accepted by the House would "destroy the entire price-control program."

Administration leaders were hopeful of getting down to final voting tonight on a much-amended bill in which they have won some tentative victories, suffered more defeats.

One of these came yesterday when the House voted to ban all price controls which would not allow a "reasonable profit." If finally enacted into law this might cause a review of the thousands of ceiling prices fixed by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) to take into account cost-plus-profit data on all farm and industrial products.

Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle assailed the action as "the most damaging blow to price controls" thus far taken. He called it a "cost-plus-guaranteed-profit-on-every-item" plan.

Speaking in support of the amendment, Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) asked the House: "What is wrong with profits? How do you expect to get the production we need to beat inflation without reasonable profits?"

Political Implications

Republicans and Democrats alike were conscious of the political implications contained in their decisions on wages and prices. Party leaders made no bones of their hopes that the record in the controls fight will sharply define the fundamental party differences on which political victory may hinge in 1952.

House leaders counted on the (Please turn to Page Two)

Big Chance Blows Up When Luck Turns Sour

DAYTON, July 19—(AP)—You know how it is! When the man from the home office blows into town, everything goes wrong.

Consider the story of Richard Allaman, superintendent of the Montgomery County Detention Home. Sherwood Norman of the National Probation Association, whose business is reporting on such institutions, was visiting. Allaman wanted to make a good impression. So, here's what happened:

Three boys escape, the first in six weeks.

Three boys got into a fight outside the window at which Norman was sitting.

In the middle of the night, Norman heard Allaman go out. The boys had started a rumpus the night supervisor couldn't quell.

"The only thing we need now," Allaman told Norman, "is an accident."

A little later, a boy working in the home kitchen chopped off a finger end with a sharp knife.

Squalor Found by Probers

Rent Gouging Is Bared Near Big Military Bases

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—Many servicemen living with their families near big army posts are being gouged for sky-high rents to live "amidst appalling filth and indescribable squalor," Senate investigators said last night.

A report by the armed services subcommittee on preparedness was based on inspections made by its investigators on rented quarters near three large defense training centers.

Most Senate committee reports are a solid mass of type, but this one was illustrated with photos of some of the shacks being used for housing.

This was done, Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) said, because "some of the hovels were so hideous they could not be described adequately by mere words."

The report declared:

"The inescapable conclusion is that in too many instances servicemen are being shamelessly victimized at the hands of civilians whose property and lives the men in uniform are dedicated to defend."

It added that "some civilians were exploiting the proper desire of servicemen to keep their families close by while on assignment in the continental United States."

"This situation is a disgrace to America," Johnson said in a separate comment. "We are asking our men to sacrifice the comforts of civilian life to ready themselves to fight and die for their country. At the same time, we are forcing them to house their families amidst appalling filth and indescribable squalor."

The report covered Camp Breckenridge, Ky., Camp Rucker, Ala., and Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Another report was promised on housing conditions at Camp Atterbury, Ind., Camp Pickett, Va., and Fort Jackson, S. C.

The subcommittee explained the check was made after it received complaints about substandard housing and exorbitant rents being charged servicemen in many sections.

Lopholes in existing rent controls laws and other factors were blamed by the subcommittee for some of the conditions. Federal rent controls do not cover structures newly converted for housing, new housing built since February 1947, nor tourist cabins, hotels and similar places.

Although rental laws prohibit most evictions, the report said many servicemen do not know this or are afraid to protest for fear of losing what housing they have.

The hospital board is reported to have scheduled a meeting with physicians and surgeons of the hospital staff at an early future date to give further consideration to this matter before making any request through the county commissioners to bring the bond issue question to a vote.

When the hospital was built the intended normal capacity was for 36 patients excluding new born babies.

Later, through a remodeling of the interior, the normal capacity was increased to 43 patients in rooms and wards.

The original survey, showed a need for a minimum of 54 beds, but soaring construction costs necessitated a revision from a two-floor to present one-floor plan and a corresponding reduction in capacity.

Stumbling Block Withdrawal of Troops in Korea

Fighting Revived On Limited Scale Along Battlefront

By ROBERT EUNSON

MUNSAN, Korea, July 19—(AP)—Korean cease-fire negotiations made, the United Nations said, neared a crisis in a two-hour session today. "No progress" was Tomorrow's meeting will tell the story, an official spokesman predicted.

"We'll come to an agreement or there will be an air of finality about the disagreement," said Lt. Col. W. J. Preston.

Neither the Communist nor the United Nations delegation would budge from its previous position on the one basic issue under debate, said Preston. He attended the sessions at Kaesong.

The issue is believed to be the Red demand that foreign troops withdraw from Korea, although no one has said so officially.

"Each side was very emphatic in its stand," said Preston. "Never have I heard the same thing stated in so many different ways than today."

"Each statement was just as emphatic -- or even more so -- than the previous one."

Supported by UN

Preston said his remarks had the approval of the United Nations command. Presumably this included Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. The supreme Allied commander flew back to Korea from his Tokyo headquarters in response to a message from his armistice negotiators.

The acuteness of the crisis was indicated by the official UN communique. For the first time since talks started July 10 it reported "no progress."

"There is one basic issue that the North Korean-Chinese delegation is holding out for," Preston said. "It was the subject of debate all day."

Thursday night the Red Korean Pyongyang radio emphasized the tone of Communist broadcasts for two days -- that the key question is withdrawal of foreign troops. It quoted an official newspaper:

"The solution of the Korean problem hinges on the withdrawal of foreign troops."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il opened Thursday's discussions by asking what the Allies thought of a cease-fire agenda submitted by the Communists Wednesday.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, replied, the UN communique said, by reiterating "The United Nations stand that only matters of a military nature would be discussed."

The Allies consider the question of withdrawing troops from Korea a political one, to be taken up later at a higher level after an armistice has been signed.

Last War's Canteen Turns Up in Korea

TOKYO, July 19—(AP)—Sgt. Walter A. Criss of Spencer, W. Va., caught up with his old World War II canteen cup in Korea.

On the cup he had carved the names of ten countries he served in during World War II. In September, 1947, army authorities made him turn it in at Fort Sill, Okla. They said a canteen cup with such inscriptions was not regulation.

While standing in chow line in Korea, Criss spotted the carved old cup in the hand of another soldier.

Criss talked the man into a trade--and promptly began inscribing a few Korean names on the cup.

How About Consolidating Our Aid Program?

Our Secretary of Defense, George Marshall, told the House Foreign Affairs Committee recently that foreign military aid will have to go on through 1954 at the same level requested for the fiscal year, 1952. This means at a rate of six billion three hundred millions of dollars. Somewhere in the background we have lost all the assurances that within the near future, our foreign Allies would be in a position to diminish the requirements of help from Uncle Sam and cut down on our spending.

Besides this foreign military aid, economic assistance, originally scheduled to end entirely in June, 1952, must be continued. Mr. Marshall is honest with us. In his own words, he "regrets to report" that some European nations "have not seemed to do all that they could do", but he is nevertheless "encouraged".

Recognizing realistically that we have no real alternatives available to us, isn't it about time for us to consolidate both the military and economic foreign aid programs. There is good reason to believe that they are overlapping mightily. As matters now stand, the State Department runs the arms-aid program and the Economic Co-operation Administration handles economic assistance. General Eisenhower is consulted on the military planning, but Mr. Acheson decides what goes to whom and when. This form of dual authority is always inefficient. We ought to end the multiple buying and selling program and put it under one head where we can see what goes on.

Field and the Reds

Frederick Vanderbilt Field, fourth-generation descendant of Commodore Vanderbilt, has been in a jam with a federal court for refusing to reveal the source of bail for four convicted Communists who jumped bail on the eve of beginning prison sentences.

The government charges Field is the financial "angel" of the Communists, and is known to have had a prominent part in furnishing a total of $750,000 in bail money for the Reds during past years. Field refused to tell the court where the money came from.

Field is a rich man. Certainly he cannot qualify as a have-not who grasps at the straw that a change in the "system" might in some miraculous manner benefit him. If he inherited, along with his millions, any of the common sense for which his paternal ancestor was noted he must realize that under Communism he would be one of the first to suffer if, in fact, he was not liquidated.

Cortisone from Yams

Production of cortisone, a wonder drug which has been used with startling—if temporary—results in treatment of arthritis, and is reported to have been a boon, too, in dealing with critical burns, alcoholism and other ailments, may soon be great enough to meet the demand. And at a lower cost.

A group of chemists has succeeded in producing cortisone successfully from the root of the Mexican wild yam, which grows in southern Mexico in vast quantities. "The new process will eliminate the necessity of depending on limited materials for sources of supply", chemists say.

Produced hitherto from ox bile, cortisone has been scarce and has cost doctors $30 a gram.

Within a year production of the synthetic cortisone should equal present output from animal materials, and within 36 months should meet the country's entire demands.

One concern with a capital of only $1,200 is reported to have received government contracts totalling $3,000,000. It is not revealed where it obtained the $1,200.

One Oklahoma county reported rain for 23 consecutive days. Farmers there are said to have abandoned a project to hire a rain-maker and contemplated hiring carpenters to build an ark.

Wine Tasting No Fun for Old Pro

NEW YORK, July 19 —(P)—After a hard day at the office, Frank Schoonmaker comes home tired from drinking, but not drunk.

In some quarters this may be regarded as thoughtless waste of the perfect alibi, since Schoonmaker is a professional wine taster. But in working hours, he says, he can't afford to swallow the stuff. He tastes and then spits it out.

"In one day," he reports, "I may taste as many as 100 different wines. If I swallowed it, I'd be plastered before lunch."

Schoonmaker, a wine importer and author of books on wines (his latest: "A Dictionary of Wines"), says tasting wine professionally isn't much fun.

"It takes too much out of you," he explains. "It demands too much concentration, you can't carry on a conversation or do anything else. You have to be absorbed in the one thing. It's like a critic listening to music. He can't hear anything else at the time."

On a tasting day, Schoonmaker doesn't smoke or eat any highly flavored foods which would dull the edge of his taste buds. Each taste involves about a tablespoon of wine and requires about two minutes for tasting, analyzing and making notes.

First, Schoonmaker examines the color. He can tell a chemically colored wine from a naturally colored one just by a glance. If the color is off, he won't even smell it, much less taste it.

Next, he smells the wine and grades the bouquet. He does this by swishing it around in the glass. The more the inside of the glass is coated with the stuff, the greater the bouquet.

Now he is ready to taste.

"I swish it around in my mouth," he says. "I draw in air over it. I breathe out through my nose. That's important because much of the taste is in the nose. Some wines seem good when they first hit you but they don't have a persistent flavor as the taste leaves you."

Now he thinks about what he's just tasted. The fruitiness of the flavor and the specific grape involved, about possible flaws, about whether it's too old or too young (Alsatian Sylvaner wine, for example, should be under five years; after that it loses its fruitiness), about balance—or whether the wine is too acidic.

He doesn't like to be asked which type of wine he likes best. "It's like," he says, "asking a man which of his four children he likes best."

Schoonmaker, now is 45 and favors crew haircuts and bowties, got into wines by way of the newspaper business. He had always loved wine and as a correspondent in Paris he made a hobby of travelling to French vineyards and collecting all kinds of data on the subject.

UN and Freedom of the Press

The United Nations gradually, through its various committees, is moving into world government, and the country that it uses as its testing ground is the United States. Few Americans are conscious of this activity of the United Nations and many of those who know what is being done by the various committees refuse to believe that any of it can have any permanent effect on American institutions.

Yet under the charter of the United Nations, which in the American political system is a treaty signed by the president and ratified by the Senate, decisions of the United Nations have already been applied to cases in our courts with the full weight of the law.

One of the committees of the United Nations which has concerned itself with questions tremendously important to the United States is the special committee on the draft convention on freedom of information. As the work of this committee is studied, it is clear that its interest is not in freedom of information but in the right of governments to limit and suppress information and for the harassment of reporters. This is done under the Aesopian word, "responsibility."

Carroll Binder, of the Minneapolis "Tribune," the American representative on this committee, has been waging a losing fight trying to educate some of the Europeans about freedom of the press, as practiced in the United States, where the imperfections of man are recognized and often assumed to be natural and therefore unpunishable.

In those other countries, the theory is that the "great mind" alone can determine what the people ought to know and that competent reporters, who check their data, are spies or irresponsible. Carroll Binder describes their attitude:

"These governments are engaged in a terrifying experiment to condition the minds of hundreds of millions of persons in an attempt to make them respond automatically to the commands of their rulers. In their hands information has been transformed from a means of enlightenment and understanding into a political weapon taking any form or shape required by the situation. It has become a knife to assassinate reputations, a drug to dull the senses, or a poison to instill suspicion and fear."

"Of course, when they have sought support of their view in the United Nations, they have been careful to present it in the most disarming disguise. They have maintained that to promote friendly international relations it is first necessary to define what information is and then to suppress the dissemination of anything which does not conform to the definition..."

What these countries seek to do in the United States is to make the newspapers and the journalists "responsible." They do not recognize that the laws of libel are sufficient; they demand that, by administrative procedure, a government shall be enabled to take action against a newspaper or a reporter who is not "responsible." By responsibility, they mean that no reporter should write nor should a newspaper print anything that annoys the politicians of any country. Binder says:

"...This convention was never, as I understand it, intended to deal primarily or even directly with the work of journalists. I have understood its intent to be the promotion and protection of everyone's right to freedom of information. To distort it into a punitive measure directed at journalists would certainly be a mockery of everything the United Nations has attempted to do in this field. We must realize that undesirable checks placed on journalists would apply equally to artists and teachers, to lawyers and politicians -- and in the last analysis to people like ourselves drawn from every walk of life. Even if the grievances against some journalists and newspapers are assumed to be real, this is certainly too high a price to pay to settle a few scores!"

The State Department has put up a good fight against the Europeans who seek to suppress freedom of the press throughout the world by means of the United Nations. The American position is:

"We are convinced that the fundamental principles of freedom of information can not be the subject of compromise..."

The United Nations is, however, a complex and enormous organization in which compromises must be found among 60 nations. Things happen there and the public finds itself faced by a condition from which there is no immediate withdrawal.

It is therefore essential that the American position be strengthened to say not that "freedom of information can not be the subject of compromise," but we should say that the freedoms of the American people are not subject to discussion. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Diet and Health Bladder Obstruction Often Is Neglected

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Obstruction of the neck of the bladder is fairly common in middle-aged women. If taken care of promptly, the condition can be relieved rather simply; unfortunately, many women neglect it until a great deal of damage has been done through a back-flow of urine into the kidney.

Women may have a retention of urine at any age after 20 years, but it is more common in those between the ages of 30 and 60 years.

Long-Standing Infection

No definite cause of this condition has been found. However, long-standing infection may produce a narrowing of the opening between the bladder and the outside. Gonorrhea, bladder tumors, tumors of the womb and hernia of the bladder may also cause urine retention.

Patients with this disorder complain chiefly of frequency of urination, with pain and burning. They often wake up several times during the night to urinate. There may be loss of control of the bladder, bleeding, and sudden stoppage of all urine flow relieved by a catheter or tube.

Symptoms Neglected

Many times these symptoms are neglected by women until irreparable damage is done to the bladder and ureters, which are the tubes between the kidneys and the bladder, and even to the kidney itself.

A recent study of 76 such patients showed that 62 were relieved of their symptoms by operation. The operation is a fairly simple one and the relief is almost immediate.

It is important for women with these symptoms to see their physician immediately so that treatment may be carried out before real harm has occurred.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. M.: Can a fluoroscopic examination of the upper part of the abdomen detect an ulcer or must an X-ray also be taken?

Answer: In determining the presence of an ulcer, barium is usually given by mouth and the patient fluoroscoped. An ulcer may be detected by fluoroscopic examination, although most physicians confirm this by X-ray.

Sen. Taft Willing If Really Wanted

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19—(P)—Sen. Robert A. Taft said today he will not seek the presidency unless he is convinced the Republican party "really wants me."

Ohio's senior senator refused to elaborate as he boarded a plane for Washington.

Taft was a guest of former President Herbert Hoover at nearby Bohemian Grove.

Taft said he declined speaking invitations in California out of deference to Gov. Earl Warren, GOP presidential nominee in 1948 and an oft-mentioned presidential possibility.

"How about seconds?" asks one little Korean lass.

CHEJU ISLAND, OFF KOREA

—To the average foreigner, Americans are peculiar people. Their peculiarities never are more evident than when they're concerned with kids. What foreigners don't realize, perhaps, is that our love of children is an outstanding by-product of our American family heritage.

The Korean youngsters shown have known far greater hardships than many a seasoned soldier. Now orphans, they are the real victims of war. But with the help of family-conscious Americans and an Air Force chaplain, they're getting back to the near-forgotten business of being just youngsters.

A few months ago, cold, sick and bewildered, they were spirited from Seoul just ahead of advancing hordes of Chinese Reds.

MORE THAN a thousand of these children were airlifted from a foundling home in the former South Korean capital to an island 300 miles away. The evacuation was directed by Maj. Gen. William H. Tunner, famed for his operation of the Berlin Airlift which supplied, for more than 18 months, the food, medicine and other necessities to more than two-and-a-half million people. Today, Tunner is deputy commander of the Military Air Transport Service.

To perform this mercy mission, Tunner assigned 16 red-tailed C-54 Skymasters of the Far East Air Force Combat Cargo Command to the task of transporting the children to their island refuge.

Most of the children were under five years of age. All were suffering from malnutrition and exposure. More than 100 had infectious diseases.

TODAY, the moppets eat regularly. They have a clean place to sleep. They have the best of medical attention. Both Americans and Japanese have contributed money, food and warm clothing for these helpless refugees. Hopalong Cassidy books entertain them during recreation hours. Many of them have now almost forgotten the suffering and sorrows that were their lot so short a time ago.

The youngsters shown here are part of a total of 4,000 homeless waifs for whom no place could be found in Seoul's crowded orphanages and homes.

But they're a commodity well worth harvesting. Some kindness now may pay enormous dividends in the future.

These truly are war's victims. Starvation faced them when the Americans snatched them from the enemy. No greater proof of the benefits of our family heritage could be handed down to these, our foreign friends and future allies.

Killing Uncovered By Telephone Call To Savannah Paper

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 19—(P)

—The phone rang in the Savannah Morning News office last night and a voice asked for the "crime reporter".

Police Reporter Al Lanier took the call and was told by the anonymous caller, "if you'll go out the Bee Road you'll find the body of a murdered man."

Lanier, managing editor Bill Fielder and photographer Dennis Powers followed the caller's instructions and found the body of James Lawton Lewis, 21, a taxicab driver, after a 15-minute search.

The victim had been shot twice with a shotgun and had been dead for several days. Police could find very little in the way of clues.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—This town rumbled for months with reports that President Truman was getting that ice-cold feeling toward Senator Paul H. Douglas, the 59-year-old Democrat from Illinois.

Now it's out in the open. The president has given a political slap to Douglas, who has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate himself in 1952 or vice presidential running mate for Mr. Truman then.

The slapping occurred without a harsh word spoken. Mr. Truman did it by ignoring two of the three men Douglas had suggested to fill federal judgeships open in Illinois.

Douglas made his three recommendations last January. Last week Mr. Truman okayed only one of them and recommended two others of his own choosing to the Senate for approval, an unusual thing for a president to do to a senator from his own party.

If Douglas puts up a fight against the Truman selections, the Senate may turn them down. It's not sure he will, although that won't be because Douglas lacks aggressiveness.

The tall Douglas, who has a crop of white hair, enlisted as a private in the Marines when he was 50, rose to be a lieutenant colonel, fought in the Pacific, and carries around with him a hand wrecked by wounds.

And, although the Senate is a great place for economy talk, Douglas is one of the few trained economists who took a seat there. He was a professor of economics for years.

Instead of taking a quiet back seat for a year or so, as many freshmen senators do, Douglas pitched right into the Senate's work as soon as he got there in 1949.

He helped lead the fight for the administration's low-cost housing program that year. He argued for the administration's civil rights program. And he has supported Mr. Truman in most matters.

The real cause of the split between him and the White House may not be known. But he has done some things which, when added together, may have irritated the president, who likes his Democrats to follow the party line.

When Mr. Truman wanted the presidential nomination in 1948, quite a few members of his party took a dim view of his chances. Douglas said he thought General Eisenhower would be a good candidate.

In his first year here Douglas astonished and antagonized, at least temporarily, senators of both parties by fighting to cut down government spending on rivers and harbors back in the senators' home states.

He made the same fight the following year, and then branched out, wanting to cut down money for some parts of the Truman administration's program which the administration didn't want cut.

This year -- just about the time he was sending his three judgeship candidates to the White House -- the troops-for-Europe debate was starting.

Former President Hoover didn't want to send any more. Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, wanted to limit the number which could be sent or send them on a quota basis.

Marriages 78, Divorces 55 In Six Months

During the first six months of this year 78 applications for marriage licenses were made in this county, and 55 suits for divorce were filed.

The ratio of divorces and marriages has changed little in the past two years, the data discloses. During the year following the close of the world war, there were more divorce applications filed here than there were applications for marriage licenses.

The unusual situation was brought about by the aftermath of the war. Since a number of divorce suits which were filed during the six months were withdrawn, and some of them later will be dismissed for lack of prosecution, it is safe to state that the number of divorce actions which will be heard, or have been heard, probably would not exceed 45, which would further reduce the ratio compared with the number of marriage licenses.

It has been noted that a large -- one American division for every nine or so European. Right in the middle of it, when the administration seemed confident of winning the fight, as it eventually did, more or less, Douglas suggested a compromise. He thought Congress should limit the troops. He later changed his mind, saying his idea was impractical.

At the same time Douglas was mixed up in something which really displeased Mr. Truman. Douglas was a member of a Senate committee which had been investigating RFC, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Blasting RFC, the committee issued a report naming one of Mr. Truman's White House aides as part of a group which "exercised influence" on RFC loans. Mr. Truman called the report asinine. Then the committee really went to work on RFC. In the end, Mr. Truman shook it up.

More recently Douglas said he thought Secretary of State Acheson should be let out, a very sore subject with Mr. Truman who has repeatedly defended Acheson against the demands of Republicans that Acheson be fired.

number of the divorce actions are by persons who were married in Kentucky.

New York Stores Being Investigated On Pricing Policy

NEW YORK, July 19 —(AP)—Pricing policies and advertising claims of New York City's major department stores are under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission.

The action resulted from a complaint by the Better Business Bureau of New York City, which mentioned specifically the advertising claims of R. H. Macy & Co. and Gimbel Brothers.

Macy's was singled out for its claim that "we endeavor to save our customers at least six percent for cash, except on price fixed goods," and Gimbel's for its slogan "for cash or for credit -- nobody but nobody undersells Gimbel's."

The complaint charged such claims tend to mislead and deceive the public and constitute unfair business competition "of a most serious nature."

Chest Applications Go Out to Agencies

Perse Harlow, executive secretary of the Fayette County Community Chest, said today he sent out letters of application to nine agencies which participated in the Chest last year and six letters to national organizations which solicit for funds but which are not in the Chest.

Applications must be returned by August 15 so that the various Chest committees can go over the budgets and set up the goal for the drive. The campaign this year will be held from Oct. 15-20. The kick-off dinner is slated for Oct. 15.

July, August Travel Months

Ohio Motorists Should Get Example

There will be more cars on Ohio roads during July and August than ever before, Police Chief Vaiden Long said Tuesday.

He points out that since school closed a noticeable increase in traffic has been apparent here as well as all over the state.

Almost 75 percent of all vacations touch part of these two months. The national traffic accident rates are 7 percent higher than in 1950.

These facts lead Chief Long to believe that Ohio's accident record during July and August may erase the improvement shown in the year to date.

Ohio vacationers and others traveling on the highways will be more numerous than ever, and accidents may increase proportionately unless drivers exercise unusual care and patience.

The chief admitted that most of our severe accidents occur in rural areas, but he believes that is because of greater speeds rather than poorer driving outside of the cities.

"The same things produce our traffic accidents in town or out," he said. "And people who are native to a community are responsible for most of them."

The stranger, watching for signs or route markings doesn't drive through a town pell-mell. He isn't sure of the speed limit enforcement, etc., so he is likely to take things easy. He may suddenly discover he is supposed to turn or unexpectedly encounter a stop street and so on.

"Although anxious to reach his destination, he is not too much inclined to take chances that may land him in court. Away from home, we try to play it safe.

"So if Ohio is to have a good traffic record between now and Labor Day, it will be Ohio drivers that make it good. Our visitors can help, but in the main it is up to us who live in Ohio to set the pattern."

Those who were selected to model their dresses include: Ann Hire, Patti Hurt, Beverly Baer, Julia Persinger, Roxey Rost, Mila Weatherly, Sue Christopher, Sherry Bright, Portia Brownell, Joan Campbell, Sally Reiff and Linda Brown.

During their business meeting, the members worked out the final details for their Fair Booth. Different members were appointed to work on the booth and a list of necessary supplies and materials was completed.

Following the meeting, the girls adjourned to the Washington Park for a potluck lunch. Afterwards, the members had a swimming party in the pool.

Executive Seeks Music Career

His Big Ambition To Write Hit Song

PHILADELPHIA — The man who directed production of multiple barreled rocket guns in World War II is seeking fame in a new field — music. Stuart F. Louchheim, 59, looks his part as head of a distributing company of electrical appliances.

"I have been trying to write a hit song for some 20 years," Louchheim says, "and I believe I've finally struck a chord." He spoke of the New Columbia record, "Mixed Emotions."

He explained that the rocket gun production came as something new in his life during the World War II. He's been a lover of music ever since he was old enough to play a cello.

The knitting yarn business was Louchheim's livelihood for 18 years after he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1912. Then he sold the yarn business and started what today is one of the largest distributing firms of its kind in the United States.

While this is the first song Louchheim has written himself, the song business isn't anything new to him. He is a distributor for Columbia Records and several times has come up with something big for the company.

For example there was the time back in the late 1930's when he heard three Negro boys singing a song entitled, "I don't want to set the world on fire." The boys became nationally famous as "The Ink Spots." Louchheim took the song to Columbia and it was soon number one on the hit parade.

Then there was "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer." Louchheim thought it was wonderful.

He called the president of Columbia Records and asked about the song. He was told it wasn't thought of very highly. Louchheim had Columbia make up 1,000 large size records for him. He called in his salesmen and told them that here was a song he liked.

"I don't want you to sell it boys, because from what I've gathered, nobody will buy it. Just take it to the disc jockeys in your territory and ask them to play it once a day for three weeks."

Louchheim's company sold 400,000 copies of "Rudolph." Columbia sold several million. Today, the song is a staple on the Christmas market.

It is judgment like this that makes Louchheim's five children and his wife believe that "Mixed Emotions" can't miss.

Applications to Hospital Now at Health Office

Application blanks for admission to the new Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital on the campus of Ohio State University are now available in the county health department office.

The applications must be received by July 23. With the application forms are complete instructions for filing requests for admission.

Dr. Browning, medical director of the new hospital, expressed the hope that at least six patients may be admitted next week.

The recommendation of the health commissioner and the sanatorium superintendent is required on every application form, and the approval of the county commissioners must be secured before the application is submitted to the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital.

The rate established is $8.50 a day, less a credit of $1.25 paid from the state subsidy. The net cost to the counties is $7.25 a pa-

Population of Italy Just Keeps Soaring

ROME — (AP) — Neither wars, migrations, evacuations nor deportations have halted a steady rise in Italy's jam-packed population.

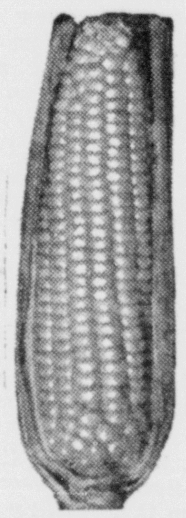

The next census in November is expected to show that Italy has 47,000,000 people and is the most populous nation in the Mediterranean area.

At the last official census, April 21, 1936, there were 43,059,889 inhabitants. Since then the Ethiopian War, World War II, migrations, evacuations and deportations all have taken place—but the country's population continued to increase.

Lovelei was a siren of German legend who lived in a rock in the Rhine and lured sailors to destruction on nearby reefs.

November Election

present indications, are three which will occur on the city school board.

On Tuesday, Romain Crocker became the sixth to file petitions and officially become a candidate in the school board race.

Condon Campbell has withdrawn from the race because of what he termed "pressure of other business," but Alfred E. Weatherly has taken out petitions. Weatherly has not filed his petitions as yet, however.

Lively Interest in School Board

With some knotty problems of financing, including the possible construction of a building or buildings, facing the city school board in the immediate years ahead, some lively interest has been stirred up in the race for the board.

The opposite is true of the county school board, at least, at this time. Only two persons have filed for positions on the county school board and are both up for reelection. They are Carroll Ritenour and Cloyd C. Craig.

Most of those who have filed for township trustee and clerk positions are incumbents.

The following have filed for the offices listed: Union Township—Senath Thompson (incumbent) for clerk and Harold E. Smith, trustee; Jefferson Township—Heber E. Flax (incumbent), trustee; Green Township—A. C. Zimmerman, clerk.

In Marion Township three men are interested in the two trustee

New Power Asked by President Is Not Likely To Be Granted

BY CLARENCE J. BROWN

The House spent last week considering administration-sponsored and other amendments to the 1950 defense production act. It will take most of this week to complete work on the bill. The House has tentatively voted to prohibit imposition of slaughtering quotas, to ban consumer subsidies on food, and against giving the president most of the new powers and authorities he had requested, including the right to license each business and industry.

Food prices are high—there is no question about that. Yet American workers can buy more food for an hour of work than can workers of any other country. An hour of labor in Norway will buy only 85 percent as much food as in the United States; in Denmark 75 percent as much; in Sweden 63 percent as much; in Great Britain 62 percent as much; in Germany 39 percent as much; in Italy 24 percent, and in Russia about 18 percent as much.

The Senate Civil Service committee has favorably reported a bill to give some two million federal classified employees and postal workers an average pay boost of 8.4 percent, for an average of $307.53 annually. In addition, postal workers in the two lower grades will be up-graded to give them an extra $200,000 a year in pay. The committee fixed the top total pay increase any government worker can receive at $800.00.

The Senate Civil Service committee has reported a bill to limit annual (or vacation) leave of government employees with less than two years of service to 13 days; those with two to fifteen years of service to 20 days, and those having over fifteen years service 26 days. All government employees, with the exception of postal workers, now get 26 days annual leave. Postal workers, now receive only fifteen days leave, so many will benefit if the new proposal becomes law. All government employees are also given thirteen days of sick leave, if needed.

The president has requested Congress to adopt a resolution officially bringing an end to the war with Germany as originally declared on December 11, 1941. Congress is expected to adopt the resolution some time this week. Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand took similar action last week.

A special Senate committee issued a report last week severely criticizing the head of the Veterans Administration, Carl Gray, for his handling of medical services to veterans. The committee also recommended legislation to correct present conditions which it insists "threatens complete deterioration of the veterans medical care program."

The president has requested Congress to authorize the expenditure of $22 billion of federal funds to rehabilitate and rebuild

37 YEARS AGO brother and sister waifs of the starving Armenian era, ages 6 to 10, were sent to orphanages. Rose Manoukian was sent to Turkey, where she married Toros Madaghian. In 1921 they came to America. Serobe Manoukian was sent to Jerusalem, where he became the Rt. Rev. Serobe Manoukian of the Armenian Orthodox church. One day attending mass in Racine, Wis., Rose had a strange feeling about the priest. In exchanging old memories they learned they were brother and sister. The two are shown visiting in Racine. personal property destroyed, and to pay benefits to those injured or made jobless by atomic or other bomb attacks.

In ten years—between 1940 and 1950—there has been a tremendous increase in expenditures made by the nondefense agencies of the government. Here are the figures: Department of State spending increased by 1,634 percent; Department of Labor by 1,283 percent; Department of Commerce by 1,049 percent; Department of the Interior by 696 percent; Independent Offices by 176 percent, and the Department of Justice by 158 percent. Much of the money spent was borrowed through the issuance of bonds, thus increasing the national debt. Perhaps this is a partial explanation of our present inflation and high prices.

As of July the federal government had approximately 2,500,000 civilian employees, or approximately 500,000 more than when the Korean War started June 25th of last year. Incidentally, seventeen different official forms must be filled out for each new employee—a partial explanation of why the government has ordered paper manufacturers to set aside part of their output for governmental use.

All appropriations for the Defense Department are not used to equip or pay our fighting men. Secretary of Defense Marshall recently disclosed that last year the Defense Department spent $10,109,109 on salaries for personnel doing press agent work; and that during the year which started July 1, the Defense Department expects to have 3,825 publicists on the payroll at an estimated cost of $13,400,000 for salaries alone. The cost of stenographic help, office expense, typewriters and other material and equipment used by the press agents must be added.

No nation has ever given as much financial aid to other peoples and governments as has the United States. Since 1941 this country has given away $81,905,000,000, to the rest of the world as military and other aid. Of this amount $49,223,000,000 was given during World War II, and $32,682,000,000 since the war ended. Great Britain, of course, has received the lion's share of all aid granted. How many real friends we have gained as a result of our national generosity seems to be subject to question.

The appropriations committee of the House last week cut the $1,258 million appropriation requested by the president for use of the State, Justice and Commerce Departments by $206 million. When the measure comes before the House more cuts are expected.

Mob Vents Its Ire On Police Station

NARRAGANSETT, R. I., July 19—(AP)—"All quiet" was the report early today after state police troopers armed with riot guns broke up a mob of about 400 persons who threw rocks through windows of the police station.

The crowd stoned the station to protest the arrest of Richard Lenoir, 21, of Providence who was taken in custody after a fist fight with another man in a bar near police headquarters.

About 40 persons followed the arresting officers and Lenoir to the station and in short order the crowd grew to 10 times that size. The mob yelled insults at the police and then hurled stones through the station windows.

Boy's Body in Stream

BELLEFONTAINE, July 19—(AP)—A 6-year-old boy's body was found in a shallow stream near state route 540 last night, nine hours after he was reported missing from home. He was identified as Kyle Batterson, the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Levan of Jerusalem (Monroe County).

Radar Watch Now Maintained in U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—Almost 25,000 air force radar men now are on steady watch at stations and control centers in the United States and Canada to detect the approach of any strange and possibly hostile planes.

The aircraft warning system has reached the point where it is 97 percent manned, the Associated Press was told by officials today.

Bond Sales Here Reach $2,531

Lowest Total in Ten-Year History

Richard P. Rankin, Fayette County defense bonds chairman, announced today that sales of Series E Defense Bonds during the month of June totaled $2,531, lowest total on record. June, 1950 sales totaled $19,049.00.

State sales amount to $16,042,812, an increase of 4.2 percent over 1950. Total sales across the nation during June, 1951 were about 8 percent below 1950.

Rankin said that the June sales were the lowest in this county for any month since the bonds first went on sale ten years ago. Only twice in that period, prior to April of this year, have sales dipped below $20,000 per month. Monthly average sales for the past three years were: 1948, $37,100; 1949, $29,500 and 1950, $33,000. The monthly average for the first six months of 1951 is $18,200.

"Were it not for the fact that our sales have been dropping badly for three months in a row, I would think our subnormal figure was a mistake in reporting," Rankin said. "As it is, I have no clue for this unusual trend."

Only July 13th, the Treasury Department announced that a Defense Bond campaign would open on Labor Day, September 3.

The entire group sang the popular song, "On Top of Old Smoky." Mothers present for the mother-daughter banquet were as follows: Mrs. Andrew Bennett, Mrs. William Pennington, Mrs. Emil Howard, Mrs. Walter Carman, Mrs. Robert Parrett, Mrs. Howard Ault, Mrs. Hugh Robinson, Mrs. Lewis Parrett, Mrs. John Warnecke, Mrs. Ervin Grace, Mrs. Joseph Cassell, Mrs. Ernest Blain and Mrs. Penwell.

In appreciation of the banquet the mothers each donated $1 apiece to the 4-H Club treasury, bringing the balance to $29.

Sheriffs Keep Nomads Going

Life of the roving gypsy bands is not what it used to be when groups of the nomads roamed the country almost at will, and usually a stream of complaints followed their course about the country.

A few days ago a party of the gypsies stopped in Ross County and were promptly given an escort by the sheriff, who took them across Pickaway County to the Fairfield County line. In the meantime, the Fairfield sheriff had been notified and met the nomads at the county line.

The gypsy caravan was taken across Fairfield County to the Hocking County line and there the sheriff of Hocking County and a deputy, took over the official piloting of the wanderers.

The Hocking County sheriff turned them over to the Athens County sheriff, who intended to see that they were routed out of his county without delay.

Officers explain that they keep the gypsies moving by reason of so much difficulty with the rovers.

Sheriff Orland Hays and Police Chief Valden Long have not taken very kindly to the leasing of camping places to gypsies in Fayette County, and have heard many complaints of permits being given which allow gypsies to remain in the county.

Pfc. Marvin Merrit On Marine Grid Team

Pfc. Marvin Merritt of Washington C. H. will be in the lineup for the San Diego Marines when they play the Los Angeles Rams, professional football team, on August 3.

Merritt was graduated from Washington C. H. High School in 1948. While there, he was an outstanding player on the Lion squad. When he goes against the Rams, who were the National Conference champs, Merritt will be realizing one of his life's ambitions. He played for the Miami University team while there and has always wanted to play pro football.

Merritt has been in the marine corps for the past two years and had just returned from a surveying school at Fort Sill, Okla., when he was called out for practice.

He has played guard most of the time, but didn't know what his assignment would be for the game.

Millwood Church Dedication Planned Here for August 5

New $15,000 Structure Is To Be Opened

Fifteen years of worshiping in a room in the Masonic building will be rewarded, August 5, when members of the Millwood Church of Christ will hold dedication services for their new church.

The new $15,000 cement block structure is located at the corner of Mulberry Street and Millwood Avenue.

August 5 will be a big day not only for the church members but also for their faithful pastor for the past five years, Edward J. Cain.

Cain drew the plans for the structure and to a large share was responsible for raising money to build it.

Most of the money came from churches outside Ohio—a lot of it from Texas, but church members here donated as much as they could afford and helped out with building it.

Volunteer labor was used completely in painting the building and with doing some of the carpenter work.

To Close His Work Here

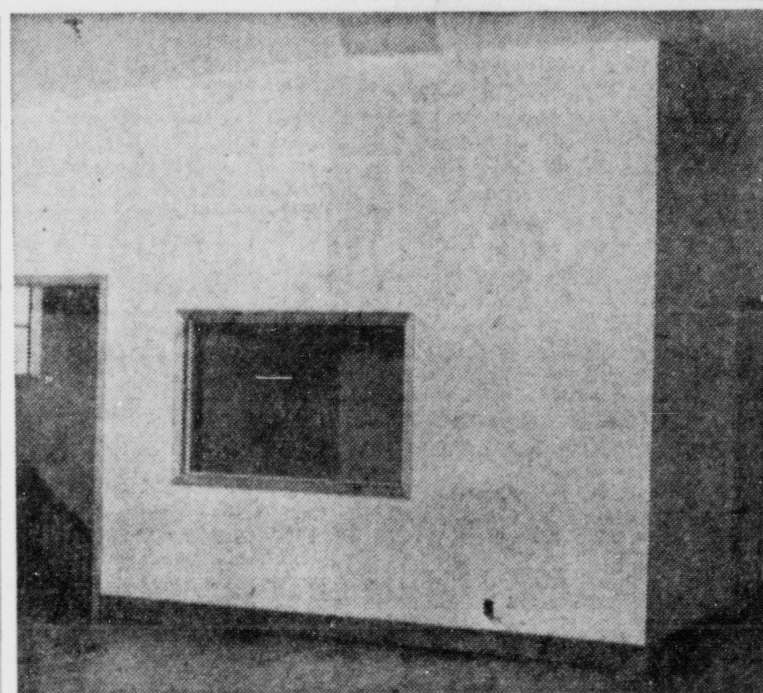

After the dedication Cain is planning to close his work with the Church of Christ here, although for the present, at least, he plans to assist the local church in every way he can.

Cain has seen the church here grow from 27 member five years ago to 55 members at the present. Born and raised in Connorsville, Ind., he was the minister at the South Side Church of Christ before taking over his present congregation.

Members of the church will find the church a far cry from the meeting place they had at the Masonic building.

Their new church will have three classrooms in the basement and three on the main floor.

One of the unique features which their architect-preacher wrote into the plans is a sound-proofed nursery where parents may sit with their youngsters and hear the goings on in the church from a microphone which will have an outlet in the nursery.

Unique Nursery in Church

Double glasses make the nursery sound proof. Benches and seats will be provided for the parents. The nursery will be located in the opposite end of the church auditorium from the pulpit and will afford baby sitting parents an opportunity to see as well as hear what happens "down front."

Cain said another innovation is the baptistry, which is elevated so that everyone in the auditorium can witness baptisms.

Plans for the church were drawn to allow for easy expansion. "All they have to do is knock out some blocks on the sides and add on," is the way Cain puts it.

The new structure is located on a lot 80 by 170 feet. The building is 36 by 40 feet in size.

Work on building the new church was started last fall.

Fair Plans Polished By Marion Marvels

The Marion Marvels put the finishing touches on their plans for showing their livestock at the Fair here next week when they met Tuesday evening at the home of Gordon and Marilyn Writsel.

Paul Shepard and Irvin Yeoman demonstrated to the club how to prepare and show pigs. They used one of Gordon Writsel's pigs for the demonstration.

Gordon demonstrated "curling" his steer and the club advisor, Alvin Writsel explained how to get a calf to show well in the ring.

In the club are both boys and girls—six girls and about twice that many boys—and they have pigs, calves, dairy cattle and sheep among their livestock projects.

Kemp Alleman was picked as the "outstanding boy" of the club this year.

Ronnie McCoy, who was seriously injured about a month ago when run over by a tractor, was welcomed back at the meeting. He said he would represent the club in the safety contest.

The club expressed its regret that Ronnie Moon was unable to attend because of burns he received Tuesday morning when his clothes caught fire while he was attempting to burn a mattress on which he had poured gasoline. He was treated at Memorial Hospital and later taken to his home.

All of the club members said

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkali (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

they would have their project books completed before the Fair. Advisor Writsel gave the Marvels a lecture on good conduct and sportsmanship at the Fair as one of the highlights of the meeting designed to put the finishing touches on Fair activities.

The business meeting was presided over by Kemp Alleman, the president. Carolyn Dray is the secretary.

The Marvels will get together next at a called meeting during the Fair.

After the meeting Tuesday evening, refreshments were served by Gordon and Marilyn Writsel.

Akron Gasoline Price War Appears Near End

AKRON, July 19—(AP)—An end to Akron's gasoline price war was signaled today when Standard Oil of Ohio boosted its retail prices back to normal.

The price war started two months ago when Sunoco stations knocked one cent off their rates. At one time during the battle a gallon of gasoline could be purchased for as low as 18 cents.

Walter Hunt, who invented the safety pin, thought so lightly of it he sold his patent rights for $400.

Flood in Midwest Warning for Ohio

CINCINNATI, July 19—(AP)—The president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, Inc., thinks part of the Ohio Valley is open to the same kind of disastrous flood as the present $500,000,000 one in Kansas and Missouri.

President O. Slack Barrett said in a statement yesterday this could happen because of lack of adequate reservoir protection from Huntington, W. V., to Evansville, Ind.

Hong Kong has been a British possession since 1842.

China's Land Reform-Red Purge Behind Terror Reign and Killing

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The story of Mr. Chu was told by a Catholic priest expelled from Red China. Because of the location of his mission he probably saw more bloodshed in the current Communist purge than any foreigner. He agreed to the use of this story provided he kept anonymous, and if the mission's location was not disclosed. Such disclosures might provoke trouble for the few foreign missionaries still there and prevent their obtaining exit permits.)

By FRED HAMPSON
HONG KONG—This fellow Chu talked too much and you never knew exactly who he was for. When the Communists first came to the village he cheered the loudest. Later he changed his tune and declared "I'll never be a Russian stooge."

The people at the Catholic mission tried to stay away from him. They thought anyone who talked like that without getting in trouble was a Communist stool pigeon. Then the Communists began their "land reform" around the village and the big trouble started. It seemed everyone hated the landlords but they hated land reform more. Then came the purge.

There were no rich landlords in the village. But the Reds began to shoot landlords anyway. Chu opposed the land reform. But he applauded the shootings. And in the next breath he would boast he would never be a Russian stooge.

The Communists built a platform for mass trials at the edge of a field, which was a sort of village square. It was near the market place. The executions always took place on market days about 3:30 P. M. Just about the time the first farmers were ready to start home the Reds began the trials and executions. They got a big crowd that way.

The trials never lasted long and after they were over the Reds led the doomed landlords into the field, knocked them to their knees and shot them.

The mission was in a compound. From the second story window you could see the whole thing close enough even to make out the expressions on the faces of the doomed and the killer.

The priest who told me the story of Chu and the landlords said he witnessed more than 100 purge killings and said "there were times when I couldn't stand to look."

The village had only a few thousand population and the whole hien or county had less than 30,000. It wasn't long before all the landlords had been shot. After that they began shooting the rich peasants. They figured the peasants had too much land.

Then they shot men who used to be landlords but who had sold their land and gone into business or retired. Someone would accuse such a man of having been a landlord during a famine years ago and of having refused to share his rice with the hungry.

The priest said one Chinese he knew was a porcelain dealer. He didn't know the dealer ever had owned land, but someone accused him of mistreating peasants when he was a landlord 20 years before. A couple of weeks later they shot him.

"I could see his face," the priest said. "He was in a daze. He could not believe what was happening. He knew practically all these people. Most of them were his neighbors and friends, some his business associates. There they were yelling 'shoot him, shoot him!'"

"His arms were bound behind him and a noose around his neck was tied to the bindings on his wrist. That kept his head up.

There was another rope from his chin and they jerked him along with that.

"That day it had been raining. There were puddles on the execution ground. Finally the executioner kicked him and he staggered forward a few steps and went down on his knees right in the middle of a wide puddle.

"The Communist with the gun didn't want to get his feet wet. So he took aim from about six feet. He was nervous. Just before he shot, the man fell forward on his face. You could see the bullet kick up water just in front of his head.

"The man laid there in the water and the Communist stood foolishly gazing at having missed. After long seconds a couple of Red soldiers with more presence of mind ran up and finished the job right in the middle of the puddle."

Chu was there applauding loudly, but a few days later the village was stunned to learn that Chu had been arrested. He didn't own any land, and never had, but they accused him of interfering with the land reform. Actually he hadn't been a Communist at all. The Reds were just fed up with his boasting about never being a Russian stooge.

He had his trial on a market day. His arms were bound tight and he had the short-rein around his neck. But he was like always—shouting his head off that he would not be a Russian stooge. He shouted so loud you could hardly hear the accusations.

Then they pulled him off the platform and led him toward the execution field. They kept jerking on his rope so he could not shout about Russian stooges. Just before he got to the shooting ground he saw his wife and son way off at the edge of the field by themselves.

"Do you know what that man did?" the priest asked. "When he saw his wife and son he pulled himself upright and jerked the rope out of the hand of his captor. He sort of gasped for a minute, then he yelled at his wife so loud everybody heard it. He yelled:

"You go over to that jail and make them give you my two blankets. Those blankets are too good for those Russian stooges. I want you to get those blankets. You be sure you do it..."

"That was as far as he got. Somebody kicked him in the back. He went down on his knees and one shot finished him.

"He was loud and he liked to brag, but when his turn came he had terrific courage and defiance."

Yugoslav Streets Given New Names

BELGRADE—(P)—It's little wonder that Yugoslavs these days hardly know what to call home. Back in prewar years, the better streets of the county's cities and villages were named for former kings. Then Germany's legions marched in. King Aleksander Boulevard became Adolf Hitler Strasse.

Then came war's end. Germany's defeat, liberation for Yugoslavia -- with Soviet help. Down toppled the Adolf Hitler street corner signs. Up went those re-baptizing the streets to commemorate the glory of Stalin and his Red army marshals.

Then, in 1948, came the split between Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia and the Russian-led Cominform. Once again, the sign painters had work to do. Slowly but surely, the names of streets honoring Stalin and the Russians are being renamed -- back, curiously enough, to the names they had before the war.

Pity the post office clerks and the cab drivers.

Death Is Only Scorned Now by Les Paul To Become Greatest Recording Sensation

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—This is the story of the man who refused to die—the man who today is the biggest recording sensation. His name, Les Paul. His music, multiple recordings—he plays up to 16 guitars on one record.

Today every disc jockey regularly features his hits. You can't escape them. The biggest smash of all is How High the Moon. Others include: Mocking Bird Hill, Tennessee Waltz, Nola, Lover, and Brazil.

They are similar to nothing ever before recorded. And Les, himself, admits his success today can be directly attributed to his interlude with death.

In 1946, Les Paul was just another good guitar player. His trio was successful and the bookings were regular. They "backed" top name vocalists, Bing Crosby, the Andrews sisters, Dick Haymes, Helen Forrest.

But Les knew "we were just another trio." He went home to Hollywood and "sat around the house four months trying to figure out how to hit the top."

Neighbors in the very ordinary Hollywood section noted strange things starting to happen. Les, who can't read a note of music, was bringing volumes of books home each week. He'd stay up all night reading.

They weren't music tomes. Sound engineering, physics, electronics, recording, and similar topics were the contents.

Next they heard of the hammering and sawing. A small sound studio was built by Les behind the garage. When he couldn't buy needed machinery, he invented it. (Some of his sound inventions now are sold commercially.)

HE MET Mary Ford (now Mrs. Les Paul and his partner), a singer and guitar player—also very pretty. The two worked together two years trying to record (electronically) perfect reproductions of guitar sounds. He hocked himself in the attempt. The 20-year-old house was (and is) cluttered with wiring, instruments, microphones and guitars. Every room (including THAT one) became a sound studio. Headquarters remained in the backyard shed.

The neighbors soon realized Les was far from the "mad musician" he appeared to be. They didn't even object to the music sessions which started at 1 a. m. and ended—?

While working at this feverish pace, Les caught himself playing the same tune four and five times on one record. The idea hit him he could reproduce an entire orchestra with guitars on one platter. He convinced Capitol records and was signed in 1948.

LES DIDN'T know of his success. He also didn't know amputation of his right arm seemed inevitable.

"One night," Les says, "I knew the end was near. I knew all I had to do was give up and I would die right then. And I almost did. But I looked around the hospital and saw lots of little kids there—they were fighting to live. I decided to fight, too."

Three months later there was a faint glimmer of hope in the eyes of the doctors. They decided not to Les Paul and his singing partner, Mary Ford (Mrs. Les Paul).

The same month, January, Les' father and brother invited him to play at the opening of their night club in Waukegan, Wis. He was ill but agreed to go. On Jan. 19, 1948, Les Paul, racked by a high fever, passed out at the wheel of his car driving near Chandler, Okla. He crashed off the highway.

His almost-lifeless body lay in the snow eight hours before an ambulance brought him to Oklahoma City. Broken bones included: vertebrae, shoulders, nose, right arm (in three places), six ribs, pelvis, legs. Pneumonia followed and all hope was lost.

A week after his entry into the hospital, his first "multiple" recording, Lover and Brazil in which he recorded seven guitars, was released. It was a hit. But it seemed the last one.

WHILE HE lay in the hospital, Les did lots of thinking—not about how sorry he was, but how LUCKY he was!

"I was lucky," says Les. "I can start all over," he mused. "This time I'll play the guitar the right way." He proceeded mentally to picture exactly how and what he would play. He memorized the procedure over and over for countless songs. Doctors advised him to think of other things—he never could play the guitar with his right hand again.

But Les continued his athletic thinking until the day they removed the cast. It was two years since the accident.

One week after the arm was freed, yes ONE WEEK, he accepted a booking and played the guitar exactly how he THOUGHT he should. He played like he never had played before. Or at least like no one else ever had heard. But he had been "hearing" it for months as he lay in the hospital. Today he is recording exactly what he thought of for those two years!

Price Battles Take New Turn

Downward Trend Given Blessing

NEW YORK, July 19—(P)—The battle of prices may take a new turn.

Uncle Sam has long placed floors under the prices of some farm commodities and more recently has been busy putting ceilings over the prices of most commodities. Now he appears to be giving his blessing to the merchant who cuts prices contrary to the desire of either the manufacturer or competing merchants.

Merchants are wondering today whether this may give the signal for another wave of price cutting—especially if a cease-fire is ordered in Korea. They still have large stocks and some would like to move them by cutting prices.

And some manufacturers who have tried to stop price-cutting on their products are wondering if Attorney General McGrath is looking straight at them when he warns that the justice department will prosecute "illegal activities" by producers, wholesalers or retailers to fix or maintain resale prices.

Manufacturers Go Along

Only a few manufacturers have tried to off-set the supreme court ruling of May 21 that non-signers could not be made to maintain prices under state fair-trade laws. Most have decided there was little they could do to prevent or halt the price wars that broke out here and there, most spectacularly among New York City department stores.

McGrath says it's all right for manufacturers operating under state fair-trade laws to sign up stores to maintain the fixed price. But he says it isn't legal to attempt to boycott non-signers, nor are agreements among competing retailers to maintain prices legal.

And justice department sources indicate actions are being planned shortly against a group of eastern wholesalers and retailers under the anti-trust laws, charged ing they illegally conspire to fix prices.

Manufacturers have their side of the argument. They spend a lot of money advertising their products and getting brand names firmly established in the public mind. They consider these brand names have a value of their own.

Threat to Prestige

And they don't like to see the value belittled by price wars in which some products are sold below cost, thus frightening customers away from stores which don't cut prices, and casting doubt in the public mind as to the justice of the original price set.

A few of them have moved since the price wars started to protect their products. Some have filed suits against merchants underselling the fixed price. A few have announced they would no longer sell to merchants who cut prices.

But the great majority have done little.

Home Mortgage Debt

WASHINGTON, July 19—(P)—The outstanding home mortgage debt in the nation reached $46,900,000,000 at the end of last year after an unbroken rise since 1944, the Home Loan Bank Board said today.

Britain and her possessions have used the Gregorian calendar since 1752.

Boatmen Protest On 'Cheesecake' by Women Passengers

LONDON, July 19—(P)—The blushing boatmen of the Thames Taxi Fleet voted to resume work today after a 24-hour strike against too much cheesecake.

A leader of the 250 strikers told newsmen, "if the employers don't do something about our grievances, we'll go out again."

One of the grievances is the boatmen have been seeing far too much of women.

It makes them blish, they say, to have to load female passengers in such a way their skirts hike up around their panties. What's more, it takes their mind off their work.

Some 250 boatmen manning 89 water taxis that ply the Thames between Greenwich and Kew walked out yesterday in a dispute over working conditions. They claim their docking facilities are not suitable.

West Offers Giant Testing Ground For Commercial Rainmaking Plans

By BURTON THOMPSON
DENVER, July 19—(AP)—This is a critical period for weather modification activities -- generally referred to as rainmaking.

The test is whether there will be worthwhile results from cloud seeding weather modification attempts on a vast scale. The west is a giant proving ground.

The largest terrain cover from 300,000,000 acres upward. Projects in 17 western states add up to over 13 percent of the nation's area. The overall figure may be 350,000,000 acres by the end of the summer.

This is the first big year for the fast-growing weather modification industry. The judges of how well the weather modifiers succeed will be thousands of farmers, ranchers and others backing individual projects with at least $3,000,000.

One commercial rainmaker, Dr. Irving P. Krick of Denver, estimates his own contracts alone include 300,000,000 acres. His water resources development corporation contracts cover all New Mexico.

Krick confidently predicted the end of a drought in that state in July. But the state still was dry in mid-July and a survey showed that rainfall this year has averaged 55 percent of normal.

"We are still confident that we will break the drought in July," Krick said, "and that they will get lots of rain in August and September."

Won't Be Any Miracles

Even if the far-flung rainmaking efforts are generally successful, there won't be any miracles. Weather modifiers don't make rain -- "we aren't magicians," Krick has emphasized. Only nature can put moisture in a cloud. The weather modifiers try to help her let loose of it.

The heart of the effort to tailor-make weather is the dryness of parts of the west. Millions of acres of crop and range lands teeter year in and year out between just barely enough and not quite enough rain.

Those who irrigate want to iron out dips in storage water. Fruit growers and others want damaging hail and rain storms cut off or gentled. Municipalities need increased water supplies. So do some companies producing electric power.

To do the job, dry ice, silver iodine and other material are scattered from airplanes or sent up from ground generators.

The theory is that in nature, moisture is attracted to frozen drops of water, dust, bits of soil and rock. The thing to do is to furnish extra amounts of them.

Rainmakers Confident

Commercial rainmakers are confident moisture may be increased from 50 TP 500 percent and that hail and heavy rains can be tamed. But some scientists and meteorologists feel that there is insufficient evidence that weather can be modified except on laboratory and local scales.

W. F. McDonald, assistant chief of the Federal Weather Bureau, has said this of weather modification:

"We admit the possibility that rainfall may be locally influenced in some degree by artificial means. The bureau feels that it is still too early to try to define what can or cannot be done."

Jim Wilson of Fort Collins, Colo., secretary of the National Weather Improvement Association, takes this attitude:

"This whole thing is so new that it is still only an experiment. All our associations are doing is to make it financially possible for these experiments to be carried out on a big scale. x x x"

Thousands of westerners want to try it. Farmers, ranchers and others have banded together in loosely-knit organizations. One man, several or a few could not afford to absorb the cost.

There are other considerations, too. Among them is freedom from individual liability in court actions.

Wilson estimated that at least 30 associations have been formed to back cloud seeding. His organization--independent of all commercial contractors--includes 18 groups.

Sometimes a flat fee is agreed upon for association membership.

Sometimes charges are worked out at so much per acre to be covered by rainmaking or perhaps a section of land is the basic unit. There are groups in which a member pays so much per head of livestock. The charge varies with the type of land; farm land more and range land less.

Weather modification has swirled up some touchy disagreements. In the Rouge River Valley of southern Oregon, pear growers hire a weather control firm for hail prevention and report that there have been no serious storms since 1948. However, other farmers in the same area fear cloud seeding may reduce rainfall. H. L. Claycomb, Ashland grain farmer, called seeding "cloud-napping" and contended:

"Let the Lord take care of the weather and let the pear growers take out hail insurance."

"Maybe," Wilson conceded, "the whole idea is a mistake, and won't work consistently anywhere but in a deep freeze box. Maybe it is OK but takes a lot of working out. Well, the first automobiles were not so hot, either, but I drive a pretty good car today."

Wheat growers in the Big Bend central Washington area think the moisture was great. They figured that 65 hours of continuous rain early in June exceeded the precipitation for all of June 1950.

Residents of five Colorado mountain towns west of Denver complained to Gov. Dan Thornton that snow--"attributable to rainmaking"--was seriously hampering mining, lumbering, ranching and the tourist industry.

"I think if I were a farmer or a livestock man and had to have water to exist I'd be willing to try most anything," said Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah.

There is some regulation of weather modification. Arizona, Colorado and Wyoming have new laws on it. Both Wyoming and Colorado claim sky water rights and all three laws set up licensing and registration provisions.

A MOTION PICTURE which the producers say was designed to present a behind-the-scenes picture of college and sorority life has been booked for the Fayette Theater for Sunday and Monday. It is entitled "Take Care of My Little Girl." In the above scene from the picture, Carol Brannon (center) is the sorority non-conformist who speaks her mind to Jean Crain and Jean Peters. It is done in Technicolor.

Dream Comes True For Crippled Boy; It's Like Stories

CANTON, July 19—(AP)—The Navajo Indian country he learned to love by mail is going to be the new home of crippled, eight-year-old Billy Shearrow.

A victim of perthes disease, which softens the hip bones, Billy was placed in a waist-high cast three years ago. Something like that makes fun difficult for a youngster so last year Billy's mother appealed to the Albuquerque, N. M. postmaster for cards and letters to brighten her son's life.

Newspapers and radio stations in New Mexico took up the appeal. Billy was flooded with mail and his long, lonely days became filled with excitement and adventure.

Billy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shearrow, visited Gallup, N. M., last summer upon the invitation of Gallup residents. They saw the Navajo Indian ceremonials and were deeply impressed.

"The visit renewed my lifelong ambition to become a missionary," Mrs. Shearrow said. So the Shearrows sold their home here and Billy's father gave up his job at the Ford Motor Company's forge plant. They bought a used car and will leave for New Mexico Saturday.

"If in our small way we can teach even a few Navajos why we celebrate Christmas and Easter, our efforts will not have been in vain," said Mrs. Shearrow.

Legislature Size All Set For 3 Years

COLUMBUS, July 19—(AP)—The size of Ohio's general assembly is all set for the next ten years.

The state apportioning board took care of that Tuesday when it set new schedules based on Ohio's 1950 census.

It also gave the state a new senatorial district, the 34th. Summit County rated a separate district because of a population increase shown in the 1950 census. The new district will have two state senators in the next five Ohio legislatures.

Summit County formerly was in the combined-24th-26th district. Other counties in that district were not disturbed. They are Portage, Geauga, Lake and Ashtabula.

Defacing Coins Now against Law

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—There is a law--at last--to keep people from hammering pennies to the size of a nickel or nickels to the size of a quarter.

These are sizes which happen to be just right to pass off on coin boxes and vending machines.

Penny-pounding and nickel-smashing became a crime yesterday. President Truman signed the bill which includes a penalty of as much as five years in prison and a $2,000 fine for violations.

Up to now, it had been a crime to "fraudulently deface, mutilate, impair, diminish, scale or lighten" gold and silver coins of the United States, but the law had overlooked pennies and nickels.

will have 136 representatives and the following three will have 139 each.

Chain Letter Gag To Sell Panties Is Being Investigated

DALLAS, July 19.—(P)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today after a new chain letter gimmick—the Pantie Club -- resulted in accelerated movement of women's unmentionables by mail.

Instead of sending money to a top name on the list, recipients of "Pantie Club" letters are supposed to send panties.

The volume of pantie mailing, said Assistant U. S. Attorney Lester L. May, "was rising to unbelievable proportions."

Postal regulations forbid use of the chain letter. May added that "if we let this thing go on the important mail eventually would not be able to get through."

Postal officials are trying to intercept the letters and packages. They released this excerpt from one of several hundred letters mailed in Dallas:

"Please send six copies of this letter within three days to six different people you know. Also send one pair of panties to the top name on the list. When your name reaches the top of the list you should receive 36 pairs of panties."

Program of Aid Here Discussed

County Auditors In Annual Confab

Fayette County's auditor, Ulric Acton, today was in the state capital for a meeting of the state County Auditors Association.

The first session was held Thursday. The annual gathering is to close Friday evening.

One of the principal subjects under discussion, Acton said in a long distance telephone interview from Columbus, was state-federal aid for the blind and aid to dependent children.

What the county auditors are seeking to find out through their discussions, Acton said, was how much the counties are going to have to put up to meet the increase in payments authorized by the state.

He summed it up like this by taking blind pensions as an example:

The maximum payments are now $55 a month. They are paid in full by state-federal grants. The counties pay only the administrative costs. If the payments are increased, the increases will have to come out of county funds.

Fayette County is now paying 28 blind pensions and making aid to dependent children payments to 30 mothers with 116 children, books at the treasurer's office showed. (No attempt was made to break down the payments, strike an average or get the monthly dollar total.)

New Aid Division

Although Acton did not mention it as a part of the discussions at the auditors meeting another aid division was set up July 1. It is the aid for the disabled. It was explained at the treasurer's office, however, that most of the 17 now receiving aid for disabled had been taken from the blind pension and aid to dependent children rolls. It was described as being largely a matter of shifting from one aid group to another for the present. Others, not included in the previous aid categories, probably will be added later.

The administration of these three aid divisions is handled by the county relief director, Mrs. Beryl Cockerill. The warrants are paid through the auditor's and treasurer's offices.

The formula for both blind benefits and aid to dependent children is essentially the same, Acton said.

Reappraisal Balm

If there is anything to the old saying that "misery loves company," Acton and the Fayette County commissioners can get some consolation out of a conversation Acton reported with Fred Becker, head of the county affairs division of the state Department of Taxation.

Acton said Becker told him that real estate reappraisals to raise values had been ordered in both Madison and Union Counties and one would be ordered for Pickaway County in the near future.

These counties have been a thorn in the side of Acton and the commissioners ever since the real estate reappraisal in Fayette County. The reason, as both have often said, was that all three counties now headed for reappraisals had an overall lower property valuation than Fayette County. All went through reappraisals about the same time a couple of years ago.

Four-County Comparison

Inasmuch as two of the counties adjoin Fayette County and all four are similar in size and make-up, especially regarding farm land, Acton said the lower valuations in Madison, Pickaway and Union Counties had placed the Fayette County valuations in an unfavorable light by comparison.

Acton, who supervised the reappraisal in Fayette County, has contended from the start that he felt the valuations here, especially on farms, were not too high although he has admitted frankly that the reappraisals were made at the instance of the state Tax Department and in accordance with the law.

Acton, who spent the night in Columbus in order to be at the association's early sessions Friday, said he was not certain what was on the agenda for the concluding day of the convention.

He estimated that more than half of the auditors from the state's 88 counties were at the Thursday meetings and surmised that even more would attend the Friday sessions.

Fair Exhibits Planned By Staunton Levi Club

The 14 members of the Staunton Levis 4-H club today were selecting their vegetables and making plans to take them to the Fair Tuesday evening where they will set up their exhibits.

Joe Wilson told the Levis how to prepare their displays.

After Wednesday's meeting at the home of Buddy Salyer, the boys took time out for such games as hide-and-seek, tag and sock 'em.

Mackie McDonald is the president of the club.

Slaughter Quotas Raised on Calves

The OPS today increased July slaughter quotas for calves and swine.

Marketing of the animals has increased above the expected numbers indicated at the time slaughter quotas were established for July.

District Director Edward F. Wagner said the quota percentage of the comparable 1950 quota is now increased from 85 percent to 100 percent on calves and from 105 percent to 110 percent on swine.

These increases apply to accounting periods beginning on or after July 1, 1951.

Armed forces requirements for calves come out of regular quotas.

Pork requirements of the armed forces will be met by federal inspected slaughterers who may increase their pork quotas as well as their cattle quotas as much as 15 percent.

Youth from Here Stationed in Korea

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Davis of 630 Sycamore Street have received word that their son, Pvt. Ronald W. Davis, has been assigned to the criminal investigation section of the U. S. Army and is stationed in Seoul, Korea.

Pvt. Davis was drafted into the Army Jan. 10 and received his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. He left the United States May 31 for the Far East and arrived in Korea a little more than three weeks ago.

His address is U. S. 52062786, 51st MP-CID, APO 301, San Francisco, Calif.

His parents say that it only takes five days to receive a letter from their son in Korea. They hear from him almost daily.

Driver Arrested On Reckless Charge

Wayne Gregory, 26, Columbus, truck driver, was arrested by police on a reckless operation charge, and was required to post $35 bond for appearance in police court.

Police said the driver passed another truck at a street intersection and was well over the center line at two street intersections.

Heat Relief Promised Here

Some relief from the intense heat of the past few days has been promised by the weather forecaster, who predicts fair and cooler weather, at least temporarily.

Wednesday was the hottest day of the season to-date, with an official registration of 91 degrees. At no time during the night did the mercury drop below 70.

During the present heat wave a great deal of humidity has added to the discomfort, and there has been a general shedding of surplus clothing.

At 8 o'clock Thursday morning the mercury was 74 degrees, with indications that the peak of Wednesday might not be duplicated.

A year ago, 86 was the peak.

Greenfield Man Is Badly Beaten

Ralph B. Auten, 44, Greenfield waterworks employee, was found badly beaten and in a semi-conscious condition in a driveway at the Water and Light department warehouse in Greenfield Wednesday morning.

He was taken to the Greenfield Hospital and later transferred to the Veterans Hospital in Dayton.

Police found Auten, and said there was evidence of a struggle at the point where he was lying. There were two large cuts on his head; both eyes were swollen shut; three ribs were broken, and his face was a mass of bruises.

Greenfield police said Darrel Riley reported to them at 2:40 o'clock Wednesday morning that "there's a man on Front Street who needs help," and said there had been a "two-man accident."

Auten could give no account of what happened.

Motorcycle Afire

Fire in a motorcycle owned by James Matson resulted in the fire department being called to Dayton Avenue at 3:45 P. M., Wednesday. The chief's car was used, and hand extinguishers made short work of the fire, which had started when the motor backfired.
